To Whom It May Concern:

Thank you for considering my candidacy for the position.

I have written this letter to show forth my interest in this current job opening. The skills and experiences which I have gained throughout my time of learning web development since 2015 at Bellevue College/TeamTreehouse, would align well for this current position. I am currently a Freelance Web Developer on UpWork: A global freelancing platform where businesses hire independent professionals for work.

From my time learning and working in Web Development, I have been progressing and enhancing my understanding of various avenues in this profession. This is shown in my web development freelancing profile on UpWork, displaying a 100% Job Success Score, of which I'm grateful to have, indicating my capabilities to ensure the positive and successful outcome of undertaken work. Various rating factors are accounted for in the percentage of this score, which will transfer to this company such as Skills, Quality, Availability, Communication, Deadlines, and Cooperation.
